THE EDITORIAL MISSION

The primary goal of Journal of Special Education Leadership is to provide both practicing administrators and researchers of special education administration and policy with relevant tools and sources of information based on recent advances in administrative theory, research, and practice. Journal of Special Education Leadership is a journal dedicated to issues in special education administration, leadership, and policy issues. Journal of Special Education Leadership is a refereed journal that directly supports CASE’s main objectives, which are to foster research, learning, teaching, and practice in the field of special education administration and to encourage the extension of special education administration knowledge to other fields. Articles for Journal of Special Education Leadership should enhance knowledge about the process of managing special education service delivery systems, as well as reflect on techniques, trends, and issues growing out of research on special education that is significant. Preference will be given to articles that have a broad appeal, wide applicability, and immediate usefulness to administrators, other practitioners, and researchers.

MANUSCRIPT GUIDELINES AND EDITORIAL POLICIES

Journal of Special Education Leadership, published by the Council for Administrators of Special Education, seeks articles that capture an administrator's attention by providing useful information that stimulates new ways of thinking about managing and leading. Only articles that have been validated and accompanied by accepted theory, research, or practice are sought.

Journal of Special Education Leadership's goals are:

1. To provide fresh ideas and perspectives grounded in recent advances in administrative theory and research, on contemporary issues that administrators must face.
2. To become a primary source of useful ideas for those who seek to educate present and future administrators of special education programs.
3. To become a forum through which practicing administrators of special education programs can challenge the meaningfulness of translations of administrative theory and research.

Contributors for each issue will include practicing administrators, researchers, policymakers, or others interested in special education administration. The purpose of this arrangement is to encourage interaction among individuals within those roles in developing articles. Interactions may include any of the following: a jointly authored manuscript, an interview preceded or followed by commentary written by the interviewer, and a follow-up article that is specifically linked to the theory and/or research article that provides examples from the field and implications for administrators in similar situations.
A typical article might begin with either a brief case illustrating the primary theme, or posing certain questions and issues that special education administrators need to address. A typical article will also satisfy the academic reader who seeks more than just opinions and wants to see a serious effort at connecting ideas to accepted theory and research.

With respect to style and format, manuscripts should:

- Be accompanied by a letter signed by the author(s),
- Have a separate title page that identifies the authors (the names(s) of the author(s) should not appear anywhere on the manuscript, except on the title page),
- Be written in clear, straightforward language, avoiding jargon and technical terms,
- Conform to APA format (see Appendix B of APA Publication Manual, 6th edition, 2009), particularly:
  - Entire manuscript is double spaced, with margins.
  - All pages are numbered in sequence, starting with the title page.
  - All references in text are listed and in complete agreement with text citations.
  - All author identification information, including professional title and affiliation, address, and phone number, is on the title page only.
  - Cover letter states the manuscript is original, not previously published, and not under consideration elsewhere.
- Include at the beginning an Executive Overview of in lieu of an abstract consisting of 3-5 bulleted major points made in the article,
- Use subheadings but not the traditional ones such as "Introduction"; use, instead, "The Future Challenge" or "Do Seamless Delivery Systems have a Future?"
- For the purpose of documentation, cite notes in the body of the paper using superscript note numbers,
- Include a biographical sketch of each author that includes name, title, place of employment address, and email address.
- Be double-spaced and no more than 15-20 pages in length, including figures. When questions arise regarding issues of grammar or style, authors should refer to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association, 6th edition, 2010.

Authors are encouraged to get feedback from colleagues and practitioners on early drafts. A paper can be improved dramatically when knowledgeable reviewers are asked for reactions in advance of submission.

Journal of Special Education Leadership is published two times per year. The issues vary with some being thematic. Each issue includes 4-5 articles and 1-2 administrative commentaries.

REVIEW PROCESS

Selection of manuscripts for publication is based on a blind peer review process. However, all manuscripts are screened first by the editor. Those manuscripts that do not meet the manuscript requirements, or that are not consistent with the purpose of the journal, are not forwarded for peer review.

The author is either notified that the manuscript is not acceptable for Journal of Special Education Leadership, or is requested to make changes in the manuscript so that it meets requirements. Copies of the manuscript are not returned to the author in either case.
Manuscripts that are consistent with the purpose of the journal are sent out electronically for peer review. Reviewers will not know the identity of the author.

Based on the blind reviews, the Journal of Special Education Leadership editor will communicate the results of that review to the author. The decision that is communicated to the author will be one of the following:

- Acceptable, with routine editing
- Acceptable, with revisions indicated by editor
- Unacceptable

When a decision is made that a manuscript is unacceptable for Journal of Special Education Leadership, it may be recommended that it be sent to a journal of one of the CEC Divisions.
